

Nashville's Godsey and Associates produced the Award winning video "I Want To Be That Man". Performed by Brian Free and Assurance, the moving video about a young man's memories of his late father and how he was able to hold on to them captures the heart of every person who watches it.

Scott Godsey, producer of the video said "When a song has the heart gripping message of 'I want To Be That Man' the production just seems to come to life as you are working it."

The prestigious awards of the National Quartet Convention held on Thursday, September 15th, garner the respect of the entire Gospel Music Industry. Godsey continued "It is such an honor to produce these videos to help tell the stories that the singers and songwriters create with their music. To be honored with an award for this work by others in the industry makes it even more special".

Godsey and Associates also won the Pacesetter award earlier this year at the Absolutely Gospel Music Awards as well as "I Want To Be That Man" by Brian Free and Assurance winning the Progressive Song Of The Year.

You can find out more about Godsey and associates at <http://godseyandassociates.com> and <https://www.facebook.com/pages/Godsey-and-Associates>

.

You reach Godsey and Associates at Scott@godseyandassociates.com