

Multi-award nominated Christian Davis is well known for singing bass with the bluegrass group, Dailey and Vincent, but he also has a successful solo career. He is also known for his studio work singing on recordings for Dolly Parton and Bill Gaither's Homecoming Video Series. He has performed at the CMA Awards, The Grand Ole Opry, The Lincoln Center in NYC, The Johnny Cash Music Festival and many other events and venues around the world.

Christian began to sing at age three, and throughout his childhood he learned to play various instruments. He began singing professionally in 1998 while attending Liberty University, as bass vocalist with The Sounds of Liberty, traveling to many churches and venues around the country. Later that year Dr. Jerry Falwell, with Christian's persuasion, formed the Old Time Gospel Hour Quartet, which Christian began as the original bass singer. He has since sung with other quartets such as the Old Friends Quartet (while George Younce was ill), Christian Brothers Quartet and Mercy's Mark.

Deon Unthank, co-founder of AG Publicity commented "I have watched Christian Davis from his early days with the Old Time Gospel Hour Quartet and was immediately impressed with this young man's talent. He has developed into one of the finest Bass singers in Gospel music and I am honored to represent him as he progresses in his career."

Christian stated "I am beyond blessed to rekindle the publicity relationship with the Unthank Family that once began over 10 years ago. I reiterate now what I said then, they are truly industry professionals who really care about their clients and the followers of Gospel music."

Christian is married to Sophia Davis, owner of Adoration Agency, and they are the proud parents of Shelby, Richard and Anneliese.

You can learn more about Christian Davis at <http://christiandavisonline.com> or <https://www.facebook.com/christian.davis>

.

You can reach Christian Davis at General@christiandavisonline.com .

For booking Christian contact the Adoration Agency - <http://adorationagency.com> .