

Welcome to the Southern Gospel Music Forum YouTube Feature Section of the website. We will be posting videos of various things in Southern Gospel Music as we come across them on the internet. We will also give a short write up of the groups or artist you are seeing. What will you see here? You will see videos of current groups singing as well as some classic clips. You might see the occasional artist interview or a preview of an upcoming project or you may see something on an up and coming artist, group, songwriter, organization or song.

Check back to our page often and see what the latest is in Southern Gospel Music that we have found on the web!

If you are an artist, group or promoter that have videos on YouTube, drop us a line at scott@sgmusicforum.com with the link and we will check them out! You might just see your video featured on our website.
